DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to papers filed on November 30, 2005.
2. No claims have been amended.
3. Claims 1-55 are pending.
4. Claims 1-55 are rejected.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. Claims 1-4, 10-12, 14-21, 26-30, 32-37, 41-47 and 49-55 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US patent 6,189,146 Misra et al. System and Method for Software and further in view of US Patent Publication 20030160823 A1 Stannard, Method and System for Indicating a license status of an object.

Art Unit: 3629

4. As to claims 1, 12, 30, 35, 41, 43 and 49 Misra teaches issuing a license with and expiration date and reissuing the licenses(C.3 I. 1-7 Table 1) Misra to teach a new expiration date for the renewed license. However, Stannard teaches a system and method of software licensing that when a user renew an old license they receive a new expiration date (Pg. 6 ¶ 73). Stannard also teaches the reissue in response to a reminder that the current license is about to expire therefore, therefore this indicates a period of time in which the user is allowed to updated the license. The examiner notes applicant merely states that update period is sometime before the expiration date, which allows the examiner a broad interpretation of this period. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to combine the teachings of Stannard with Misra so as continue use of the original license for an extended period of time. Neither Stannard or Misra explicitly teaches an update period it is inherent that if

5. As to claims 2, 19, 37, 42 and 16-47 Misra teaches issuing a new; requesting a new a new license when a new upgraded version is available(it's only available during a certain period of time0.(C. 16 I. 59-63) Determining if a license is lost and issuing a new license(C. 15 I. 13-16) Issuing a temporary license if new license is not available(C. 17 I. 8-12).

6. As to claims 3-4, 20-21, 36 and 44-45 Misra teaches a license request; reissuing a license when still available(C. 4 I. 54-57) Issuing a new license when old license is not available(C. 15 I. 19-25). Both dening and granting access to terminal dependent on security settings when license is not avaiable.(Cl 17 I. 19-21; C. 14 I. 10-11).

Art Unit: 3629

7. As to claims 10 and 26 teaches temporary licenses not being renewable(Cl. 17 l. 27-29.

8. As to claims 11, 14-15, 17-18, 27-29, 32-33 and 50-55 teaches the license issuing renewing and tracking taking place across a networked computer system(C. 4 l. 30-48)

9. Claims 5-9, 13, 22-25, 31, 38-40 and 48 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US patent 6,189,146 Misra et al as applied to claim s 1, 12, 30, 35, 41, 43 and 49 in view of obviousness.

10. As to claims 5-9, 13, 22-25, 31, 38-40 and 48 Misra teaches various time lines for issuing and expiring licenses(Table 1-5). A set temporary period (C. 17 l. 7-11)

Although Misra fails to teach the exact length of a temporary period it would be obvious to one skilled in the art that when giving the temporary license a limit or a finite duration it would include making it 90 days. Although Misra fails to teach an upgrade period for a select time before expiration, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of invention to make the period before the license expires to make it a simpler process for the user to renew the license. The examiner notes applicant merely states that update period is sometime before the expiration date, which allows the examiner a broad interpretation of this period.

Response to Arguments

11. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-55 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. Applicants arguments regarding "update period" and "new expiration date" have been addressed in the above rejections.
